Title of the OTT Course: Designing meaningful online learning

Course Meeting Dates: April 26-28, 2021

ONLINE TEACHER TRAINING (OTT) COURSE EVALUATION REPORT

Overview of the Training

The three-day training in innovative learning envisaged 9 hours presented in 3 hours per day for 3 days of classroom work and 20 hours of individual work (April 26-27-28, 2021). Attended by 11 lecturers from the different departments of 5 faculties (Faculty of Business Technology, Faculty of Engineering Economic, Media Technology and Social Sciences, Faculty of Informatics and Control Systems, Faculty of Civil Engineering, Faculty of Chemical Technology and metallurgy) at Georgian Technical University.

All course days took place online, and participants were expected to have access to necessary equipment (e.g., computer, headset, reasonable internet connection) and software. During the course, participants made use of two different tools for communication (ZOOM and G drive): The trainees were introduced the online innovative methodology of T&L, the theoretical and practical sides. They introduced the next key topics:

- Teaching and Learning in the 21st century – COVID 19;
- New competences for teachers - Introduction to the Community of Inquiry framework;
- Focus on Cognitive Presence
- Focus on Social Presence
- Focus on Emotional Presence
- Community of Inquiry Survey Instrument
- Purpose and method of the reflection portfolio
- Personal reflection portfolio and group discussion

Before the start of the course, participants were asked to select a topic. The role of the topic was to serve as a concrete teaching example, something that will help them anchor the theoretical framework to their daily life as a teacher. Instead of just discussing online teaching in general, participants also discussed the immediate consequences for their teaching.

The participants created their own reflection portfolio. Reflection was an important part of learning, and a way of making the learning process explicit. In the reflection portfolio, participants described their selected topic and the context of the topic briefly. In which subject are they teaching? What is the problem they would like to solve or the aspect they would like to improve? Formulating their thoughts on the subject in writing was a way of making sense of what they have read, watched, and discussed. Personal reflection portfolio was updated in several stages during the course. By sharing the reflection portfolio with peers, another dimension of learning was added. They receive input from other participants, and at the same time gave feedback to others.

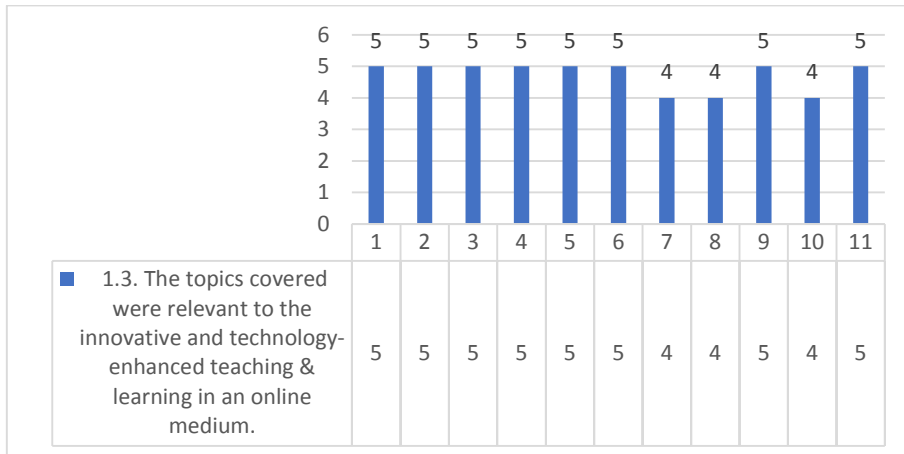

The participants were actively involved in the training course. Finally, all the participants presented their idea to Designing meaningful online learning classis based on their syllabus, modified with the newly acquired knowledge by using the Community of Inquiry framework and new active learning methods and evaluated the course, giving their feedbacks as well.

This training gave me new ideas about changing my existing teaching methods. I'll try to use them as much as possible, depending on the students feedback as well.
Be Open to Learning, be present. Each day I will develop a greater understanding of the complex challenges and barriers that exist in the online environment. I will also develop awareness of how to facilitate meaningful and engaging online learning experiences, and ways to increase opportunities for success and achievement. Embrace the opportunity to reflect on and consolidate what I have learned, and think about how to best apply my new-found knowledge and skills. Make notes about what worked well, so that when I return to either hybrid or face-to-face teaching, I can continue to implement these new practices
I will use the knowledge gained as a result of this training in my practice
I will use new technologies

Overall, this training was very useful. Hope, it'll help us to solve most of the problems which exist during online lectures
I really enjoyed this class and the format it was presented in. For me, I learn and retain much more through an online class due to the fact you can do the course. This really makes me search for the answer and in return, I retain more information. I found it relaxing to be able to turn the work on the assignments and test at my leisure and when I had the time. I liked the fact you were very clear that more internet research may be necessary for some assignments To be honest, there is nothing that I disliked about the course. I will definitely be taking another online course
Thanks to the trainer for the interesting and productive training!

clarification between outcome and output results could be helpful
It will be very good if such trainings are held in the future as well.
I don't have any other comments
